A NEW TEMPERANCE DEAL.

It reports from Madison be true, there is to be a new deal in regard to the method of conducting the next temperance campaign. The plan is to abandon the prohibition party, and to organize one that will be generous enough to support a temperance man for office whether he be a republican or a prohibitionist. The Sentinel claims to know that chief among the leaders of the new movement is "T. C. Richmond, who have busied themselves with formulating some new project. Mr. Richmond was formerly one of the most prominent third party exponents in the northwest, and for several years chairman of the prohibition state central committee. He secured on his party primarily owing to the woman's suffrage plank in the national platform, and since the general collapse of the movement in several states he has thought the time is ripe for an entirely new movement. Several temperance men in other parties, it is said, have been interested."

If the real object of the new movement is to push forward a practical temperance cause, it should succeed, and doubtless will, but it is to be a new name for an old party, it will far be better than the third party. One of the best things the new movement can do is to use its influence to secure the nomination of wise and cool-headed temperance men for the legislature. As a rule, the republican party has nominated such men. There were some mistakes made last year in other parts of the state in nominating republicans who didn't care whether the temperance question was voted up or down. Such men never should go to the legislature as republicans. A man who is not willing to support a wise and necessary temperance measure is not a representative of advancing republican ideas.

A too radical measure should not pass, and it might do more harm than good if it did pass, but there is a temperance policy very much like that in Pennsylvania, which would be a blessing to Wisconsin. A movement that would secure the people such temperance reform as that should receive the hearty support of everybody outside the liquor traffic.

The evils incident to a large and increasing foreign-born population and to imperfect immigration and naturalization laws are not to be dealt with by secret, oath-bound societies. They are evils that especially demand to be discussed in the most open and plain-spoken manner, and to be dealt with through the agency of well digested laws that will accurately reflect enlightened public opinion. Our immigration regulations have gradually been increasing in stringency for some years past, but these laws represent temporary expedients—and too often mere demagogic expedients—rather than systematic and far-reaching attempts to deal effectively with a most important subject.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

There seems to be but little hope that the immigration laws will be materially improved for some time to come. Congress has taken a hand in that matter several times, but did not mind the situation to any extent. The drift of discussion in congress two years ago showed very plainly that little could be done. There was a good deal of cowardice on the one hand, and a lack of comprehension of the subject on the other, so that nothing was done, and what hope have the people that anything effective and statesman like will be done, no matter which party is in power.

This country would make some pretty gigantic strides towards distinguishing reform if the immigration and naturalization laws were wisely amended.

Mr. Porter, the superintendent of the census, disposes with a single stroke of the absurd claim that there would be so much "politics" in the eleventh census as seriously to impair its value. He says that of the twenty experts thus far appointed fifteen were employed in similar capacities by General Walker in 1880, and that he has no knowledge of the political inclinations of seven of the twenty officials of division already named. Let no more be heard of this ridiculous twaddle about politics and protection in the census.

The Little History would be concluded, it is announced, in six more numbers of The Century. These concluding instalments are described as particularly strong in interest. The great standard value of this work can be more easily perceived when it appears in book form. It is still an open question whether the serial publication of a connected historical work is advisable.

A timely word, and a true saying: "The fact that the prohibitionists haven't gained a victory anywhere since they broke faith with the republicans party should admonish all reformers that there is nothing so unprofitable as treachery."

The more Clarkson follows the plan of the Cleveland administration in chopping off a head every fifteen minutes, the more the democrats howl. Some people like to see some other man's ox gored.

President Harrison yesterday appointed William Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, United States Minister to Germany.

BEGGS IS UNDER ARREST.

A SENSATION IN THE CRONIN CASE.

The Grand Jury Coming at the Bottom of Facts—Wholesale Arrests Expected—Burke's Case at Winnipeg.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The grand jury this morning resumed the inquiry into the Cronin case. The first witness was Dr. J. P. Cass, who lives on Milwaukee avenue. The doctor testified that he had a fast horse which Dan Coughlin and Burke, shortly before the murder, tried to hire for all night service. He stated that they put up $400 guaranty that the animal would be returned in good condition, but this was refused and the men departed in anything but good humor. Dr. Cass identified a picture of Burke as that of Coughlin's companion.

Patrick O'Brien, a State street saloon-keeper; J. R. Bell of the Western Union, and representatives of the Postal Telegraph company, were also called as witnesses.

Other witnesses before the grand jury were Dennis O'Connor, John F. O'Connor, Thomas Murphy, John Moss, M. J. Kelly, John F. Beggs, John Horan, Paul Hoelz, T. J. Conway, Edward Sholes, J. R. Voss, William Linn, and T. P. Shanahan.

The session of the day was the disclosure that Attorney John F. Beggs had been under arrest since Tuesday night, which fact was made known by his appearance at the criminal court building to testify again before the grand jury, attended by two officers. At the conclusion of his testimony he was hustled into a wagon and taken to a police station to spend the night.

Last Friday the present grand jury, after exhausting all the evidence against Alexander Sullivan, Martin Burke, Woodruff, P. O'Sullivan, Coughlin, and all other suspects in sight, postponed the inquiry to give the police and State's Attorney time to develop a case against the center of camp.

The bureau of prosecution, armed by the information placed in its hands by a member of the "inner circle" last Monday, has been closely pressing this group until now one is arrested and the evidence warrants the indictment of others.

The method pursued by the grand jury in the case of the "inner circle" last Monday, has been closely pressing this group until now one is arrested and the evidence warrants the indictment of others.

"Now," says the inquirer, "were you at a meeting, Feb. 15 or the last Friday in April?" (Two meetings were held.) The suspected man either admits or denies that he attended any such meetings. Then each man was brought in again. He was told that "A" had said he was at such a meeting, and that "B" had said he was there. Wasn't he there? The witness was given the alternative of refusing to answer, or being sent to jail for contempt. Guilt and punishment for perjury stared him in the face. He denied, however, that he was there. To admit having attended the meetings seemed, as they were already known, harmless, when it came to choosing between the two alternatives.

Five men were thus made to admit they had attended the meetings of the conspirators. Once having made this admission they were admitted as to what was said and done. Hesitatingly and at a half-dozen different examinations the suspected men told confused and varied stories. As the inquiry progressed they were confronted with the discrepancies, obvious inaccuracies, and misstatements of their original accounts, until entangled, embarrassed, and confused by his front of opposition they were allowed to retire from the grand-jury room, leaving an impression of their guilt upon the minds of every one who heard them.

The suspected men have been placed in the grand jury room since either before the grand jury or the State's Attorney a dozen times. John F. Beggs was relentlessly questioned seven times. He would admit that he was a member of the Cronin case and of camp 20, that he was the senior guardian or executive officer of the camp; that he had attended certain meetings, and that he had met at certain times. But he protested his innocence, saying: "I know nothing and I am not responsible for what others in my camp may have done."

The account given above of what took place in the grand jury room is contained in the State's Attorney's office. Another story is that the mysterious informant about whom so much has been said recently is none other than Beggs, that he, though deep in the conspiracy, has told all to save himself from the scaffold.

Something of the utmost importance has occurred. Henry Greenbaum, a grand juror, sat eating his lunch in a restaurant yesterday afternoon.

"At last we are at the bottom of the case," he said to his neighbor.

"What is it that you are at the bottom of?" put in a reporter who sat at his other elbow.

"Nothing," said Greenbaum clutching his check and hastily leaving the counter. A reporter personally known to several of the grand jurors called upon them at their residences or places of business and talked with them upon the situation. Their explanations as grand jurors forbade them from telling what they knew, but they did say that developments of the utmost consequence to the case had occurred.

The life of the grand jury is co-extent with the June term, and the June term expires Saturday. If the jury be not through the June term will be extended by Judge Shepard and the grand jury thus continued.

Assistant State's Attorney George Baker came back from Washington yesterday noon with the extradition papers for Burke and a talk properly signed.

Mr. Longenecker he departed last night for Winnipeg, where he will remain until the legal formalities for bringing Burke back are completed with.

"The Fox" Said to Be Working on a Farm Near Chillicothe.

CHILICOTHE, Mo., June 27.—Cooney, one of the alleged murderers of Dr. Cronin, is said to be working on a farm in this county. A detective who claims to have no connection with the Pinkertons has been here two days. He says that "the Fox" was in Kansas City eight days ago. The detective left for the country this morning.

Business in Chicago is much like what it was in Europe in the middle ages; indeed, in isolated places where communication is had it is inevitably so. An American consul recently wanted to export some small German-made watches, a merchant the price; he was told they would be 10 cents apiece, and was asked how many he wanted. He replied that he would take 50,000, whereupon the Consul, taking his long pipe from his mouth in astonishment said: "Oh, if you want so many I shall have to charge you 20 cents apiece." And so it is with all business; the more you want the more it costs, and a large order scares the merchant by the thought that you are taking all his stock and he may have trouble in buying more.

A Hartford clergyman tells this anecdote: Early in life, while occupying another charge, he invited a clergyman whom the unregenerate would call conceited and dull to preach in his pulpit. During the sermon the Hartford preacher looked away in the crowd a well-known scoundrel was suddenly called on to conclude the service with prayer. Accustomed to regard himself as the humblest of his Creator's instruments, and forgetting that he had not delivered the sermon, he began with: "We beseech Thee to accept the weak and feeble effort that has been addressed to thee and more richly endow Thy servant in the graces he so greatly lacks."

Democratic Sentiment in Italy.
Italy is becoming very democratic, despite the fact that the present monarchy does all that it can to prevent it. At Florence the other day a well-known sculptor was brought up for shouting "Down with Cispiti" on the anniversary of Mazzini's death. The public prosecutor in his speech said that such subversive language deserved stern reproof, and asked for a month's imprisonment for the sculptor. At this the whole audience burst into a roar of derisive laughter, and the court at once acquitted the sculptor, who was applauded as he left the room.

IN SPECIAL SESSION.

The Board of Education Last Evening Voted to Have.

THIRTY-EIGHT WEEKS

Of School During the Coming Year—Supt. Keyes reports Excellent Work Done.

A special meeting of the board of education was held last evening at the council chamber.

Present—Coms. McLean, Kneff, Metcalf and Wilson.

Superintendent Keyes recommended that the graduates of the class of '89 were entitled to receive diplomas. He also said that the work of the class about to graduate had been very complimentary to each member during the entire year, and for that matter during their entire course.

The standing, in order to enable a scholar to graduate or give evidence of satisfactory work, must range between 75 and 100. In no case in the history of this class of seventeen had it approached the minimum.

On motion of Commissioner Metcalf, the president and clerk of the board of education was authorized to sign the diplomas.

On motion of Commissioner Wilson the ensuing school year was fixed at thirty-eight weeks, divided as follows: Fall term to begin on Monday, September 18th, '89, and to continue fourteen weeks, with two weeks vacation.

The winter term to begin January 6th, 1890, and to continue eleven weeks.

The third term to begin April 21st, 1890, and to continue eleven weeks, ending June 27th.

On motion of Commissioner Metcalf the clerk was instructed to invite the mayor and common council to attend the graduation exercises.

On motion of Commissioner Kneff, of the finance committee, all bills were allowed as read by the clerk.

On motion the board adjourned.

The next regular meeting of the board will convene at the council chamber on Monday evening, July 1st.

—The proprietor of the Grand Hotel in company with N. Fredericks went to Clinton yesterday and purchased a splendid team of grey horses to be used on the Grand Hotel bus. They will come out in a brand new harness made especially for their use.

—Work has been begun on the Stephenson 3000 property, West Milwaukee street. The old dwelling house which has stood there for so many years, and is considered one of our old landmarks, is being moved to the rear of the lot to make room for the large and commodious block about to be erected.

—A large number of people were present at the Baptist social last evening which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Fales, 106 Locust street. There was no programme of exercises but all present spent the time in a general social way. Ice cream and cake was served. The company did not retire to their homes until a late hour, all having enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

—An individual on South Main street spends the time between five and six in the morning, in shooting sparrows in his cherry trees which he thinks are eating the fruit. It is estimated that he kills one bird in one hundred shots on the average, has already riddled the trees of fruit and spoiled so many morning naps for his neighbors that they are becoming early risers from the force of habit.

—Smith & Gateley are putting a twenty-five horse power engine and a forty-five horse power boiler in the yards on West Milwaukee street. The engine will be used for the purpose of grinding and sawing. They intend putting pockets into their yards into which coal will be elevated, screened, etc. These gentlemen will have, when completed, one of the largest and most convenient wood and coal yards in the state.

—The "Willing Workers" and the "Happy Glens" were out in large force last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Lothian, 208 South Main street, it being the occasion of a lawn social given under the auspices of the Home Missionary Society of Jackson street M. E. church. Recitations, singing, ice cream and cake, and a general social time served to make the evening one of pleasure to all.

—In the July number of The North American Review, Lord Wolsey is named his criticism of the Civil War, dealing with the operations of Admiral Farragut; the campaigns in the Shenandoah Valley; the seven days' fighting near Richmond; and the campaign against Pope. He speaks severely of Secretary Stanton, whose "rank nonsense," but he is strong in his praise of President Lincoln.

—Two individuals on horseback who were driving three cows into the city this morning from the direction of Milton avenue, had a lively chase with the animal when they reached Mr. Pease's hill. The cows broke away from them, ran through all the door yards in that vicinity, not fenced in, and made havoc among flower beds and things generally. They finally took to the streets and ran under the bridge by the gas house, when overtaken and subdued.

—The many friends of Miss Hattie Benedict will regret to learn that she has decided to remove to Chicago. For the past two years Miss Benedict has been engaged in teaching music in this city. Coming to Janeville a total stranger, she labored under many disadvantages, but possessing the ability and energy to win, she gradually worked her way to the front. As a pianist, Miss Benedict is a brilliant performer, playing entirely from memory. Her appearance is altogether welcomed with pleasure by an audience. As an instructor she possesses the rare quality of pleasantly imparting knowledge, and in a manner so impressive that her pupils never fail to improve. In vocal work the Children's Musical Society and their rare concerts, will long be pleasant reminders of skill and patient toil. As a lady Miss Benedict will be missed in the musical circles of the city, and more especially in the homes that have enjoyed the pleasure of more intimate acquaintance. Her work in Chicago will be in connection with a musical publishing house and will furnish a broader field of operation. The Gazette voices a popular sentiment in wishing her unstinted success.

MATRIMONIAL.

DAVIS-TATLER.

The Menasha Press contains the following matrimonial notices which will be read with interest by the many friends of the groom in Janeville:

"At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor, on Chute street, Tuesday evening, was solemnized the marriage of Thos. J. Davis to their daughter, Miss Elvior. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. A. Brown, of Appleton, in the presence of about forty relatives and friends, and was followed by a very pleasant reception during which choice refreshments were served and a delightful time enjoyed by all. At 11:25 Mr. and Mrs. Davis left on a ten days' bridal tour followed by the hearty good wishes of the assembled friends. They will take up their residence in Janeville and be at home after July 1st.

This has been joined together two young people whose many admirable traits have made them universally popular in their respective homes, and richly entitle them to the high and sincere respect of all. The bride has been a favorite among her acquaintances here, and will be greatly missed from the circle which she has graced. The groom holds a lucrative position in the Janeville woolen mills, and is a young man of excellent character and general disposition."

LE PETRE-JOHNSON.

At seven o'clock last evening the Rev. Dr. M. G. Hodge, of the Baptist church, was called to the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. O. Robertson, North Bluff street, to officiate at a wedding, the interested parties being Mr. Paschal Le Petre and Miss Trillie Johnson. After the ceremony the bride party enjoyed a pleasant steamboat ride up the river. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Le Petre will extend hearty congratulations.

THE ODD FELLOWS.

PREPARING FOR A SOCIAL TIME NEXT WEDNESDAY EVENING.

The regular semi-annual installment of officers of Wisconsin Lodge No. 11, I. O. O. F., will take place at Odd Fellows hall on Wednesday evening of next week. The members are making arrangements for a social time on this occasion. The installation ceremony will be made public for the Odd Fellows, their families and invited friends; the installation ceremony being concluded refreshments will be served in one of the large rooms, and following this the young people will be given an opportunity to join in a dance in the large hall on the third floor. The older members will have the lower rooms to themselves, where they will be appropriately entertained and amused.

THE NEW IRON BRIDGE.

HOW IT WILL PREVENT SIAMBOAT NAVIGATION.

The business men of the city are a good deal agitated over the building of the four mile bridge. The bridge as it is to be constructed will not permit ordinary steamers to pass under it. The owners of our steamboats are a good deal discouraged over this state of affairs. They have in some instances a good deal of money invested in boats and grounds and they say their business so far this season has hardly paid their expenses, and if the bridge is put so close to the water as not to permit their boats to pass under it will substantially ruin their business. But this is not all. The business men of the city are equally indignant, and not without cause. We have a city of perhaps thirteen thousand inhabitants. Nearly every day during the summer season there are people who wish to get away from the work and noise of the city, and in companies take a pleasure trip up the river on one of the steamers. The best grounds for the use of picnic parties are located above the four mile bridge. Should the bridge be built so that the boats cannot pass under it there is scarcely a person in the city who would not suffer an inconvenience from it. It is generally understood that the piers reach the height of ten feet above the water and at an additional cost of $250 the bridge could be placed on top of these piers instead of being attached to them below, and that the appropriation made for this purpose is more than sufficient to cover the expense. If any steps are to be taken in this matter they will have to be taken soon. It is the general talk of the street that it would be a disgrace to the city to allow the bridge to be built so as to cut off all navigation further up the river. If the bridge contractors are allowed to construct the bridge in this manner, of course it will be useless to try to change it afterwards. Why can't something be done immediately about the matter?

A NEW TURN TABLE.

THE LARGEST TURN TABLE IN THE STATE BEING SET NEAR THE C. & N. W. R. R. HOUSE.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway have turned up the old turn table in the yards near the round house, and the engines of the road are obliged to stand out of the house on the side track for the present. Men are at work building the masonry on which a new table is to be set; the turn table has arrived from the Lassing Iron Works, Chicago. It is the largest table in the state and there is only one like it in Chicago. One of the same kind has recently been put in at Belle Plaine, Iowa. Its diameter is fifty feet and its weight is enormous.

It will be a great improvement in comparison with the old one. It is to be worked by hand, but so constructed as to make its operation very easy and rapid. If all the material and directions arrive in season it will be completed and ready for use by another week.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

THEY ARE PASSED BY DIVISION NO. 3, A. O. U. OF THE DEATH OF MILES DORAN.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 77 degrees above zero. Clear with southeast wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 84 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with east wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 61 and 58 degrees above zero.

A lively runaway took place in the fourth ward early this morning. A team belonging to John Carpenter was standing in front of Presiding Elder Bonworth's residence, where some men were engaged in laying a sidewalk. The team ran full speed down High street, turning off to School street, and had it not been that a man turned them to one side by waving his hat and shouting at them, they would have run right into the front porch of a dwelling house. They turned out as the man ran towards them and the wagon ran around a large tree almost twisting around it, demolishing one wheel and the tongue of the wagon completely and wrecking it considerably in other ways. One of the horses was badly hurt and so stiffened by some means that he was hardly able to move.
